

SPRING 2026

ADJUNCT ACADEMY

MONDAYS,
6:15 P.M. - 7:15 P.M.
ONLINE

February 9

 Say It, Show It, Ask It: Designing Engaging Lectures and Discussions

Explore strategies for engaging students by combining clear instruction, meaningful examples, and well-designed questions to foster active participation and deeper learning.

---

February 16

 Beyond the Test: Designing Assessments That Matter

Develop strategies for creating meaningful, authentic assessments that align with learning outcomes and provide actionable insight into student understanding.

---

February 23

 Designing Assessments for Learning in an AI Age: Inclusive and Resistant Approaches

Explore practical strategies for creating assessments that intentionally incorporate AI, where appropriate, while also protecting opportunities for authentic and meaningful learning.

---

March 2

 Stop, Start, Continue: Pivoting Your Course for Student Success

Explore simple, student-informed assessment techniques to make timely changes that support engagement, learning, and success for the remainder of the term.

---

March 16

 Minimizing Incivilities in the Classroom

Examine common forms of student incivility at the college level and the role faculty play in classroom management. Learn preventive and proactive strategies to address and reduce incivil behaviors, creating a more respectful and productive learning environment.

---

NC Central
UNIVERSITY

College of Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities

Sponsored by

For more information:

Dr. Shauntae White, sbwhite@nccu.edu

NC Central
UNIVERSITY

Office of Faculty
Professional Development